DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 5-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Edwards et al U.S. Pat. No. 5,370,675.

Edwards discloses an injection catheter comprising: a catheter body comprising a flexible tubing having proximal and distal ends and at least one lumen therethrough (48, 154, 184, 208, 300); a tip section comprising a flexible tubing having proximal and distal ends, wherein the proximal end of the tip section is mounted at the distal end of the catheter body (50, fig. 11, 186, 304)); a needle control handle at the proximal end of the catheter body (figs. 11-12, 14, 18, 26, 32-32); an injection needle extending through the tip section, catheter body, and needle control handle and having proximal end attached to the needle control handle and a distal end within the tip section, wherein the injection needle is longitudinally slidable within the tip section so that its distal end can extend beyond the distal end of the tip section upon suitable manipulation of the needle control handle (col. 14, lines 54-60, note it is the examiner's position that although not shown (figs. 4-10) inherently has a needle control handle with a proximal end attached to the needle control handle); and an electrode lead wire having a first end electrically connected to the injection needle and a second end electrically connected to a suitable monitoring apparatus or to a source of ablation energy (figs. 4-18, 26, 32-34 and the entire specification); as to claims 5, 6, 7, 8 (see above listed figures); and as to claims 9-12, (see above rejection).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Edwards et al U.S. Pat. No. 5,370,675.

Edwards discloses an injection catheter substantially as claimed however, it may not be clear to someone who is not of ordinary skill in the art that the first end of the electrode lead wire is connected near the proximal end or distal end of the injection needle. Therefore, it is the position of the examiner that it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have a proximal and/or distal wire connection, since it has been held that rearranging parts of an invention involves only routine skill in the art. In re Japikse, 86 USPQ 70. As to claim 4, (col. 42-63).

Claims 12-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Edwards U.S. Pat. No. 5,370,675 in view of Edwards U.S. Pat. No. 5,599,294.

Art Unit: 3763

Edward discloses an injection catheter substantially as claimed except for disclosing a method for introducing a therapeutic or diagnostic agent into heart tissue of a patient. Edwards discloses a method of using an injection catheter for introducing therapeutic or diagnostic agent into the heart tissue of a patient (col. 5). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use Edwards device in the heart since Edwards (294) discloses that it would be readily apparent to a person skilled in the art that the device and method can be used to destroy body tissues in areas other than the prostate such as the brain, heart and/or other body cavities and tissue locations that are accessible by percutaneous or endoscopic catheters. Application of the device and method in all of these organs and tissues are intended to be included within the scope of this invention. As to claims 13 and 15, (col. 13, lines 5-18) and (col. 14, lines 1-11); as to claim 14, (see above rejection); as to claim 16, col. 3; as to claim 17-20, (see above rejections).
